Today a rather unusual event, I want to present a master who rarely comes forth to give information. He is Paul the Venetian, a master of the artistic and creative energies of creation and who deals more with the deva and angelic kingdom than the human.

Peace Beloved of the Creative Spirit,

This is the Master Paul the Venetian. I come to you at this time to share a word of wisdom. It is not often I deal in the giving of information at this level but I feel it is important to share a word of knowledge at this time.

I am a Master who walked the human path of development for many lives before reaching a level of mastery. During my stages of development I grew very close to nature and to the angelic kingdom. In the process of doing so I decided to involve myself more with their evolution and, development and service than with the human kingdom.

I come at this time to share something concerning the angel at the building on campus which John inspired and helped in constructing. Myself and six other masters took part in the ensouling of the building with this angelic consciousness. The reason we did so, was to implant a particular group of thought forms into and around this building and the angel serves as a mind force overseeing these thought forms, and directing energy so that these forms might become reality in the minds of the people at this center.

It is important to note here that there are several different types of angels in creation. The one that now ensouls the building is an Angel of Creative Thought. These types of angels come into being when a collective energy mass comes together in constructive thought forms. This energy must be very well organized and have very definite goals in order for an angel to then ensoul this energy mass and give it true life.

This is why myself and several other masters came together at the time of the dedication. We took the collective thought forms and energy mass that had been put into the building and through a certain ceremony, we organized the energy and gave it definite goals to be fulfilled. At that moment then the angel ensouls this energy and truly gives it life and an identity, as well as direction, or should it be said a guiding mind to allow this energy to flow in its proper direction.

The question arises, why the ensouling of the angel at the time of the dedication and not sometime before, say at the laying of its foundation. Just as the soul does not move into the newborn infant until its first breath, so too the dedication ceremony, where many are gathered together, is as the first breath of the building and this is when the building is ensouled.

So this angel is the soul and consciousness of the building and is the guiding force working with the hierachial energies that will help to impart a great truth and wisdom to the people; souls; which are involved with this building. The building is a symbol of what, we the Masters of Hierarchy, wish to impart to humanity concerning the steps forward in education and business that are needed to help bring in a new age awareness in these areas of people's lives. Just as we helped to upgrade mankind's working conditions a century ago with the development of unions which gave the worker more say in the working environment, and a century before that was the introduction of the industrial revolution, so now, we have come to help unite education and business to upgrade these levels of life expression.

The Industrial Revolution served its purpose and unions have served theirs as well. Now it is time for a step forward once again and a step upward in this continuing chain of events. This is why we inspired in a certain few the idea of this building and soon others like it will appear. Soon too, we the Hierarchy of Earth will have ensouled other centers of education as we have done so here, creating a new body of learning and change. These centers will serve as a chakra system of our will and love to help continue the growth of humanity. The angels that we ensoul the buildings with are a special breed or creation of angels. They have and continue to serve in the capacity of mind focus wherever they are directed to serve. At times they have ensouled board rooms, governing bodies of schools or business or governments, buildings where many people come and go and can receive a new view of life and go forth and bring change. They ensoul churches, hospitals, and anywhere where they can serve the creator and help accomplish the Creator's plan.

In the same way, you each in the foundation are serving as a mind focus for the greater plan and the greater good of humanity, that is God's greater good. So you too are like angels in your way of service.

This particular angel who now ensouls this building is one of great service and has served the creator well in the past in dispersing knowledge and helping to bring about balanced change. The angel, ISHNA, has recently served within the United Nations with "Unicef" along with seven other angels. Now Ishna has been selected to help begin this new project.

I and the other Masters are pleased in what is taking place with this step forward and we are also overjoyed that there are those who can share in this birth. The greatest joy of life is in the living and sharing of life and truly we are pleased you can share in our joy.

I, Paul, leave you now but first I must ask each of you, begin working for the angels in and around your life and share in their giving of the Creator's love. These are the true miracles of life.

Peace and love,

Paul the Venetian
